Set on a hilltop inside a rustic barn surrounded by steep-sloping vines and views of the valley below, this tasting room takes a little effort to get to — but offers one of the most private and exclusive wine experiences you can find in Anderson Valley. A finance executive who moonlights as a winemaker, the eponymous Thomas T. Thomas is the only Black vintner in Anderson Valley and has decorated the small and warm tasting room with brightly hued art from people of color — including a few of his own pieces — like handmade rugs and some aboriginal paintings. Book a one-on-one tasting with Thomas to taste through his full-bodied, rich and concentrated Pinot Noirs and lovely Chardonnays.
